PRENEAL Canada profiled in Invest in Canada

(Moncton, New Brunswick – July 15, 2008) – PRENEAL Canada President, Christian Monod has been profiled in the Environmental Technologies section of Invest in Canada's 2007/2008 Flagship Report. Invest in Canada is a bureau of the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, which assists international companies planning to invest or expand their business operations in Canada.

PRENEAL Canada is a subsidiary of PRENEAL Internacional, a global leader in the development and production of renewable energy, based in Madrid, Spain. The European company has a solid track record and expertise in the production and sale of electricity and has recently expanded its operations to Greece, Mexico and Canada.

Christian Monod, a board member of the parent company, incorporated PRENEAL Canada in 2006, and set up the head office in Moncton, New Brunswick. The Invest in Canada publication interviewed Mr. Monod for the article "PRENEAL: Opportunity Blowing in the Wind."

The publication, which is distributed across the country, around the world, and available on the Invest in Canada Web site, quotes Monod on his reasons for choosing to set up headquarters in the Maritimes: "Christian Monod, says there's a huge potential for wind power in Canada's Atlantic seaboard, and adds that he sees a real desire among consumers and investors to learn more about wind energy, which makes the timing for his company's move perfect."

Monod says he's also honoured that his company has been profiled alongside other industry leaders representing various investment sectors, such as Honda, Pratt & Whitney, Nokia, UPS and Microsoft.
